"I see the words California and ocean... I felt my chest run out of air and started to hear people screaming. I could hear water coming... I instantly felt sick to my stomach and felt the earth shake."

[Mar 23, 24] "I had past visions of a huge wall of water heading for different parts of the west coast, not just California. Unfortunately, the wave reached parts of Alaska as well. It is interesting because I see a huge wall of water but no quake when it happens, it will be ~~about mid to late spring, when the violets are in bloom, and the trees are green.~~ I look at California and don't feel a quake yet, but I do feel something more explosive will happen north of California between Oregon and Washington." If I focus I can see the earth, when I see different areas I can sense if something's coming. Earth herself can change her mind at the last minute in regards to natural disasters.

[Aug 9, 24] I think there might have been a third scenario I never thought of but could explain the wall of water I saw in many past visions. If perhaps a mega quake on the other side of the Pacific.. It can cause a tsunami to hit the states and other areas.

"Kinesthetic people can learn to become very sensitive to what their body is telling them. When communicating with plants, kinesthetic people easily feel in their body just how a plant would make them feel. People with this type of medicine easily feel what state the plant is in, if it's healthy or sick or stressed."

"I would look into people and see what was wrong with their physical, mental or spiritual bodies. But now, I saw the same thing with the earth. I would see the rivers and oceans, which translated to the blood vessels and the arteries of the earth, and I would see all sorts of deposits of minerals and gases of the earth, similar to minerals and gases found within the body. Then I would watch some of the part of the earth in pain. The first night, I got up and talked to my wife about it. In the past, if I talked about these dreams, it lessened the severity or the amount of pain I carried."

Unknown Date: I was seeing some people (from 3rd person perspective) on a port planting a bomb... It was in California. They planted a bomb of some kind. Suddenly, I saw a huge explosion, and a cloud spreading further and further and killing more people, and bringing fire with it, and I saw the tectonic plates breaking, like during a major earthquake.

Just had the craziest dream about the world plummeting into chaos. The entire thing spurred by a cataclysmic event that has people going up to Alaska to escape what happened on the west coast. A huge earthquake ripped California into the Pacific. Me and a few friends have to go search for one of our own that got stuck up north. We lost contact and are sent on a mission to bring them home, meeting both good and bad people along the way.

The real reason no word is getting out on the people missing up north is because at the same time Russia starts their invasion, killing indiscriminately troops and civilians. The rest of the world doesn't know how bad it got cause communications are broken.

I've been having this dream for years now. Always the same. A natural disaster strikes the US and ships head this way by sea and the people coming over to the US act like they are going to help but once in the US, they put everyone in concentration camps and kill all police and authorities. The country divides into three parts, all new nations after an earthquake near the border of CA and Nevada. As someone comes to arrest me and try to put me in a camp I jump in a river and swim to a boat... I am at sea with just my dog and all the cash I own in an envelope because the dollar had fallen to near cents and this is all I could get out before it crashed. All other boats on the ocean are smoking and on fire, I'm all alone, then see an island I know is safe.

But the end of America as a world power came as visions of two horrendous earthquakes in which buildings were swaying and toppling over like a child's wooden blocks. I knew that these quakes happened sometime ~~before the end of the century~~, but I couldn't tell where they took place. I do remember seeing a large body of water that was probably a river. The cost of rebuilding these destroyed cities would be the final straw for our government, now so financially broken that it would hardly be able to keep itself alive. The voice in the vision told me that it would be this way while the images from the box showed Americans starving and lined up for food.

Before this hideous battle comes to America, the earth will destroy the San Francisco Bay Area. For the first time Americans will see one of their Great Empires fall; two massive earthquakes that destroy San Francisco way beyond repair or reconstruction.

The following earthquakes are warnings, giving time for American families to flee. After Russia and China attack the US homeland, the rest of the world better take heed. <https://web.archive.org/web/20100303031321/http://www.apocalyptic.org/philosophy-and-religion/two-earthquake-predictions-marin-co-70-and-san-francisco-80.p> [Prediction, June 22, 2007] A magnitude 7.0 earthquake is going to manifest on the San Andreas Fault Line in Marin County, California. Most of the force from the earthquake will be directed toward the populated eastern side of the county...
Three months after the San Francisco Bay Area is hit hard by a 7.0 Earthquake in Marin, the San Andreas Fault Line moves again, producing an 8.0 or 8.1 earthquake...
Thankfully there will be a mass exodus of people leaving the San Francisco Bay Area during the first three months after the 7.0 Marin County earthquake, this saves many lives when the 8.0 comes.

[Predictions Summary] <https://web.archive.org/web/20220116181055/http://www.v-j-enterprises.com/scalpred.html>

Scallion has predicted that three large earthquakes, each one larger than the one that preceded it would strike the LA area. The third of these great quakes, which Scallion says will measure about 8.3 on the Richter scale (+/- .5), will initiate the breaking up of America.

According to Scallion, the first two of these predicted LA quakes have already taken place: A 6+ on April 22, 1992 and the 7.5 Landers Earthquake which took place on June 28, 1992. Scallion is predicting the third one will occur before December of 1995.

When the third earthquake occurs, a three stage land fracture and break-up of the entire western portion of America will begin. According to Scallion, the cause of this massive break-up is a very large magma bubble that is pushing up beneath the United States. This magma bubble is caused by a build up of ice at the poles. The ice build-up at the poles is causing an instability in the Earth's rotation which, in turn, is creating instability in the earth's magma and core.

As changes occur in the western and eastern portions of America, the Midwest will also undergo major changes. Chief among these changes will be the great lakes expanding into one giant inland sea while the Mississippi river will expand into one gigantic seaway. Scallion attributes the changes in the Mississippi and Great Lakes regions to melting polar ice caps. According to him, the poles will melt because of volcanic activity in the polar regions and shifts in the land mass. The transformations in the Midwest will also be brought on by continuous storms and repeated flooding.

~~Mt. Rainier in Washington state will erupt~~. Scallion predicts that Mt. Rainier will explode in a southwesterly direction and that its eruption will be greater than Mt. St. Helens.

Basically Seattle was gone, a lot of our west coast was under water. Then the letter 3 showed up. I'm not sure what it was meant, 3 days, 3 weeks, 3 hours? I've seen 6 fireballs (wasn't sure if they were bombs or what) that spread across our whole country. Then I've seen that almost whole coastline was gone from our east coast, Florida was under water and it showed me Texas was underwater too. It showed the 3 great lakes turned into one big body of water and also looked as if our country had a new river running through it. I forget specifically where but between east coast going past great lake towards Texas;

I was suddenly looking down on Washington state (I live here so I'm very familiar with the topography) and I see that the whole south western corner of Washington has a new caldera. It doesn't seem particularly recent eruption but as I look at it, it looks like what a chips and dip platter might look like.

The volcano in the middle up higher and the land around it decimated into a sort of bowl like shape with water from the Pacific that has poured into it. The placing of this caldera is just about where Mt. Rainier would be found... except not all nice and mountain-y at the top but, like I keep saying, a caldera and everything around it's just brown, like no trees or anything.

I didn't get the feeling like it was a recent eruption or like it was about to erupt or anything. It was like I was way in the future maybe looking down on the new landscape that had formed because of an old eruption.

With the way the topography is in the southwest corner it makes sense that water from the Pacific could drain inland since it's a lot flatter down there and it's also where the Columbia river deposits. That would have had to been one hell of an explosion though!

There was a small forest fire up there. Not unusual, as we live in a fire-prone high desert area. We saw planes and helicopters flying over dropping water and retardant on it...

Suddenly, a huge flock of birds flew over. They were fleeing for their lives, as if a hawk was chasing them. However, there appeared to be thousands of them, all doves... One by one, the birds wings failed, and they died in midair, like leaves falling from a tree...

Suddenly, a Bald Eagle died and fell into the water. A couple sparrows, apparently immune to whatever was killing the doves, tried to help the eagle get back up, but to no avail...

The retardant plumes from the planes became thirteen giant swords. [BRICS?]

I then had a dream within that dream, where I woke up from the bird dream, and I was in bed trying to write it in my journal. An invisible entity had control over my hand/pencil. It kept putting the title as "Todo Muerto", but I wanted it to be called "Dead Birds Falling From The Sky" I wrestled its hand off of mine, and I wrote down my title. The end.

I saw thirteen new nations entering the world market ~~in the late nineties~~. These were nations with manufacturing capabilities that put them on a competitive footing with the United States. [BRICS?] One by one our European markets began to give their business to these countries, which slowed our economy even more. All of this led to a greatly weakened economy.

Even more shaking was witnessing a giant spherical satellite slowly impacting with the closest planet/moon nearby. (In the dream, the location was not present Earth but a theoretical representation of it. A different galaxy and different planets since I didn't recall seeing the sun.)

Following impact of the two objects, a shockwave of energy is sent hurling towards the direction of Earth<sup>02</sup> sending panic and alarm throughout the news and city...

Before the moment of impact I tell my friend,

"This is God's judgment day. It is because of how we treat homeless people. We see them and their lives and laugh and give fake sympathy. They are suffering every day and we live our lives not lifting a finger to help them."

Last night I had a vivid dream that felt so real. In the dream my friend and I were walking on a beach, but then we ended up in a neighbourhood close to the beach. Suddenly a woman started screaming & we looked up & saw black smoke filling the sky & it was coming towards us fast. Hundreds or thousands of black birds were flying away from the smoke & they were very loud. It seemed like something catastrophic was coming towards us related to weather - maybe a volcano or tsunami. My friend said, "hurry we need to run to my place!" so we started running & people everywhere were screaming & panicking around us. A train stopped abruptly & we ran past the train. The smoke eventually got so thick that I couldn't see my friend running ahead of me anymore & I woke up.

I told my friend about the dream today & she freaked out. She told me she couldn't sleep last night so she was awake watching the Netflix show La Palma. I've never seen this show before, but when I looked it up on google, the imagery in the show is almost identical to my dream!?!? And this is what the show is about: "A Norwegian family vacationing on La Palma faces disaster when a young researcher discovers alarming signs of an imminent volcanic eruption"

Also something else that's really weird is that the real volcano eruption in La Palma that happened in 2021 ended on Christmas Day. It lasted from September to December 25th. My dream happened during this timeline of the same months but not the same year (December 2024). I never heard of La Palma or this volcano eruption before until I had this dream...

Suddenly, the sky started opening and massive boulders fell out of it.

In a valley of people I stood shoulder to shoulder with, some I knew while others were strangers, but all felt familiar.
