"...It was more like we had been using technology that we didn't fully understand, and that beings who did understand it could use it as a portal... I looked up at the sky and its blood red. It is cold, and it is night time. I think it was around the end of Autumn - the beginning of winter. When the sky turns blood red on a cold night, get yourself away from electronics and underground."

[Interview] It was oddly bright for the time of day. It was like a dark reddish twilight that illuminated things slightly. Kind of like a full moon. I don't recall seeing anything in the sky during the dream, but I also didn't look very hard. It was like something primal in me knew that all hope was lost when I first saw the blood red sky... I avoided investigating it because of that feeling.

So I've had different versions of this dream since I was around 12 (I'm well into my 20s when writing this). If I was to guess, I probably had this dream 5 times, not closer to 10 for sure. The last time I had one was 2yrs ago. The dream goes something like this:

All electricity is out, either everyone chooses to not use it or it was EMP'ed, I'm not sure which one - people are hiding, mostly underground - the main threat is objects flung down on people from the sky - depending on which version of the dream I have, a signal of a roaring sound from the sky or the sky lighting up in a blood orange type of color, indicates an attack is about to happen - minutes after the signal, heavy objects slam down on people, causing massive damage - sometimes I don't get a look of the aftermath, but I've seen cars, big steel beams, parts of planes and satellites(?).

I see a red moon. (we could see the planets clearly from the naked eye as they seemed to get bigger) Someone in my family said "We must be drifting towards the end (or a black hole)"

We were suddenly pulled away from the sky as a sudden and strong gust wind of smoke and ash blew towards us we saw our surroundings were a mix of orange, red, and black. We all quickly ran inside as another strong gust of smoke and ash came towards us...Then I looked from the window again to see a giant black hole in the sky with the orange and red swirling around it, with fire raining from the sky.

[Dream, Jan 30, 25] u/ProfessionalSir3395:

It started off bright and sunny, then clouds blocked out the sun. Eventually, a giant snake made out of smoke swallowed the building I was in, all of us were tumbling as it passed through us and when we stopped, the world around us turned to falling ash, the ashes being from people being burned alive by the snake, those still alive had enough sense to hide behind heavy objects like washing machines and toilets. I was with total strangers, and when we tried to call loved ones, we only got a recorded voice saying "it's pointless" before the line went dead.

I looked up at the sky and noticed a very long "snake like" constellation of stars connected by a very bright rainbow band in between the stars. They themselves were surrounded by a rainbow Aura. Then, thick red clouds starting pouring in. They were really tall, and rained Ash down. I went inside and warned my friends that an earthquake was about to happen, and sure enough, a huge earthquake destroyed the houses foundation and left a big tear in the roof. I looked through the gap and saw pitch blackness, which then exploded into the brightest white I had ever seen. I ran outside, and saw a massive Leviathan take place where the stars once were. Then started to open his mouth, and spewed oceans of water through the sky and down to earth.

I dreamt about being in earth's mantle, that have been living on earth for millions if not billions of years. At least they predate humans, by far. They cannot leave earth's mantle. As far as I'm aware of they are neither hostile nor especially intereseted in us. But they're afraid of something. Somewhere in the future - and I think we are taking thousands if not tens of thousands of years in the future - their existence will end abruptly. Space and time will cease to exist in our region of space. I saw some sort of black stain in the sky, no stars, nothing, just a void. This void seems to be a region where the density of this gasious matter is so low, that space ceases to exist there. And this region will collide with our solar system. They know about it but cannot look into it, because they lack the means to examine it. They cannot exist in space that doesn't have the right amount of "pressure"/density. They cannot visit earth's surface either. They can go to the time though, just before it happens, but not further...

On December 31, 2019, I had a dream where a male spoke to me about the stars in the night sky, saying "they are a big new threat." And I looked into the stars and it felt like staring into the abyss. And the abyss stared back at me. It felt like the stars were dead/alive at the same time. And the dots of light formed a constellation that was pink or purple. The man said, "this is the world we live in", and then I woke up with my heart pounding heavily.

The voice shows me a nebula of sorts, I see a cluster of stars. The nebula is pink, purple, and dark, almost in the shape of an eye or black hole. The voice is saying, "this is where they'll come from." I've seen the same exact scene of the nebula multiple times in dreams over the past 1-2 years. It's always a warning as well, some voice is warning humanity.

Next I see earth, and the voice says humanity needs to stop making noise which is also a warning I've received in another dream. That we need to cut all electricity, radio, phone calls, everything, or else they will hear and they will find us. In the dream I interpreted "stop making noise" as humanities phone calls, radio transmissions, tv broadcasts, etc. traveling across space revealing earth's location and sentient life to hostile neighbours. I came to the realization that these beings once already on earth are able to detect electrical signals. That the voice was warning me not to use electricity, that humanity shouldn't, or else they will hear.

Science has allowed the igvas to penetrate to the Earth's surface as well. They don't have the prospect, however, of settling the surface of the planet, and not on their own world, but on ours. Their scientific instruments have already registered echoes of Enrof.

So some time ago they got in contact with one human in search for help. I saw that they built a grey/metallic dull shining sphere. It reminded me of those tictocs and whatnot. But it was round, probably like 4 meters in diameter. It's bigger in the inside though. This was one of the last things those beings build...

The idea, as far as I understood it, is to build a technology to enclose a region of space with some sort of force field, that allows it to keep it's density, while being surrounded by this dark spaceless void.

Something appeared in the sky that resembled the Death Star from Star Wars. It blocked out the sun. People started panicking. Realization that we are not alone and changes are being felt on the Earth. Panic began globally. Then people started developing tremendous psychic abilities. Whatever the mind could produce, even flight. We all become intuitive that there was going to be a huge solar strike on the Earth. The vehicle was helping us. We understood we could collectively with our minds build a huge Deathstar shield that would block the solar rays from destroying the Earth.

I'm not at all anyone who knows anything about this, I was sent this video and I'm legitimately terrified because I've seen something that might have something to do with this. I'm just a fcking normal arse nobody from Australia.

Years ago I was overdosed on mescaline by my boss (he gave me a drink and then another friend who didn't know I'd already been given a drink offered me one thinking it was the first time). I vomited it up but I went into a big trip. It was a nice experience, however, I had a dream that felt more like a warning or a message.

It showed the earth as a light turning on in the darkness of space, and when it turned on, an infinite amount of horrible strange insect or ocean looking creatures were heading towards it. A sort of unconscious voice that was mine but not my words effectively told me, without words that:

"The earth has made it's presence known to the entire cosmos, activation of conscious thought, the use of energy and reckless signals has made the earth akin to a literal light being turned on in a dark room. The entire universe can and has already seen us, and many creatures on an invisible plane of existence have been heading here (and already arriving) for a very, very long time. Like literal moths towards the light, space is teeming with extra dimensional life, ranging from particle sized to galaxy sized and larger, just like fish in the ocean. They are like extra dimensional insects that feed on all matter of energy, some attach to people, in fact almost all humans have one attached at this point."

Daniil Andreev -

The Rose of the World

Antihumankind, basically, consists of two very different races or species. The principal race is composed of small but highly intelligent beings that proceed through a circle of reincarnations in the shrastrs [subterranean bastions of the demonic underworld] where they assume a four-dimensional form somewhat reminiscent of ours...

However, the smallest creatures were the easiest and earliest to arrive here and have already been here for millennia, (since whenever humans really starting thinking and speaking), these were more 'local' attractions from the life forms that exist all through the dark matter in our galaxy. However, once we started making big noise, the entire universe became aware. Massive entities are heading here to consume us. Not a physical creature that we can see that will eat us, but more like shadows that will snuff us out by draining all the energy we emit. It'll be like deep heavy water wraps around the earth and strangles it, that is the visual I was shown. Invisible choking of the planet, slow at first and then without warning completely consumed in an instant.

Then the ground starts to break and shatter as massive humanoid creatures start rising from the ground and wandering the earth. Destroying everything around them and leaving scorching hot footprints on the ground.

Very soon I'm whisked up by columns of air and brought into the darkness. I see as the sun is eaten out from the center becoming a sphere of pure darkness. This sphere continues to expand and it seems to have already engulfed the universe. I watch from a stationary place in the atmosphere as one of the giants plunge their hand into the earth and pulls out a large glowing orb and crushes it. In that instant everything just falls apart.

[Dream, Jun 4, 21] u/Girl_From_Marz:

Then all of a sudden, the sky went from a light blue to a dark red. This huge, black wall like thing fell from the sky, landing on the ground as massive Giants began emerging from it. Their attire was very similar to human attire, and these giants weren't big, stupid creatures. They were intelligent and could think for themselves. They had taken over the whole planet and built huge cities over the old ones. The TV then turned on and there was a global news report airing. The reporter stated "The time has come for the reign of the Giants". I advise that everyone evacuate the cities immediately and I wish you luck to all those who survive."

On the news broadcast they were saying Giants were attacking the world, and the military was facing off against them. They showed footage of Giants that were much larger than the trees in the forest trampling the forest as they walked being attacked by fighter jets. A whole fleet of jets started pummeling them with powerful missiles and the giants started falling. The military was beating the giants.

It is possible, even almost inevitable, that, in time, they will make their presence known to us, and exchanges and contact will arise. In that way, they will, of course, try to manipulate humanity, for their most cherished hope, the dream that binds them, is to expand their realm... So, while continuing to create individual worlds and expending incredible amounts of energy to stabilize them, those forces set themselves another goal: to take over worlds already in existence or in the process of being created by the Providential powers. Their goal is the takeover, not the destruction, of those worlds.
